Top Testing Questions from Parents

What test prep should I be doing with my child after school starts?

We've been practicing all summer on TestingMom.com for the CogAT® test this fall. Are there other practice questions from the other tests we should be doing as well or just focus on CogAT®?

We're applying to private school kindergarten next year. What happens during the child's interview? Any suggestions on how to prepare our daughter?

How do I work with the pattern tiles with my child for the WISC®-IV test?

My son took a 60 question OLSAT® practice test from your website. He scored 83% correct. What do you think of his performance ? I am just little curious. What should we do now?

Our child attends Boston public school. She is tested on DIBELS starting from grade K all the way through Grade 3 and also TerraNova tests starting from 1st grade through 8th grade. Do you expect to have more information and test prep for these types of tests? Is there a reason why you choose not to discuss in detail these particular tests in your book and on your website?

We are so glad to have found your site, only wish we would have known sooner! Our 6 year old kindergartener is being tested for the GT program in Texas in the near coming days. We raised her from the outlook of fostering a child's developmental curiosity and learning through play and exposure. She has been attending preschool since age 3 and is knowledgeable on the grade-level basics. However, we were alarmed to find out the testing format does not resemble anything that is typically taught in school. What tests should we focus on to help her be familiar with the format and questions being asked?

I'm 30 weeks pregnant I have been on your website, and am eager to get my baby's brain off to a super star start!! You offer games/books/etc. at age 3. Do you offer anything before age 3? Is there anything you recommend NOW? I have read playing Bach/Beethoven to her in the womb will stimulate her brain..... Honestly, haven't done it yet, and there isn't any harm in rocking her out to classical music.....Just curious IF YOU have any expert advice for me to start NOW.....??

What do psychologists who administer the exam tell you? Because there-in lies a huge confounding variable, how much should a parent cue the kid?

My son usually shows no interest in doing the practice test if he runs into a difficult question. How to encourage him to continue? Also he does not like others to point out the mistake he makes. How to deal with this issue?

My child scored 95% on the Stanford-Binet® last year, which wasn't good enough to get him into the G&T program we wanted. This year, he'll take the OLSAT® to qualify for a different G&T program. Is he more likely to do very well on it since he did so well on the Stanford-Binet®?
